

BRO. LARRY'S SERMON NOTES

Title: Christians Respect the Law

Text: Matthew 5:17-20

Introduction: What should we think about the Old Testament? Which do we read more, the Old Testament or the New? Is the Old Testament still important today? Some individuals say we can do away with the Old Testament; that the Old Testament is full of law and Jesus came to replace the law with the gospel.

It is true that Jesus came preaching the gospel. However, that does not mean we can simply set aside the Old Testament. The Old Testament makes up a large part of our Bible. There are 929 chapters in the Old Testament and only 260 chapters in the New. When we break it down into actual verses and words, over three-fourths of the Bible is the Old Testament.

Perhaps the best way to determine the value of the Old Testament is to see how Jesus viewed it. What did Jesus say about the Old Testament and the law? Well, He spoke about the law early in the Sermon on the Mount. Numerous people in Jesus' day wondered about the relationship among Jesus, His followers, and the law.

What is the relationship of the new order to the old order of the law and prophets? they asked. Jesus explained why as believers, as His followers, we must respect the law. But how?

- I. We respect the law by _____ it.

- II. We respect the law by _____ it.

- III. We respect the law by _____ and _____ it.
